BORGOLUCE

REGION: ITALY - VENETO

VALDOBBIADENE Brut
Prosecco Superiore D.O.C.G.

BORGOLUCE

The Collaltos carry on a family legacy as owners and tenants of 3200 acres of land north of Venice given to their family over one thousand years ago. The signs of history, culture and nature co-exist with farming practices that fully respect what is a centuries-long tradition passed down by the Collalto family. 160 acres of farmland are given over to vineyards for the production of Borgoluce wines and sparkling wines. The Valdobbiadene D.O.C.G. region is home to the vineyards of Borgoluce's finest Prosecco.

REVIEWS

Prosecco Superiore Valdobbiadene DOCG Brut – NV

90 Points - © Wine Advocate, December, 2019

Crisp, clean and linear, this elegant sparkler has delicate, enticing aromas of spring blossom, fleshy white stone fruit and wild herb. The dry, tangy palate delivers yellow pear, Rennet apple, lemon zest and white almond alongside a foaming mousse and bright acidity.

90 Points - Vinous, December, 2021

The NV Brut Prosecco Superiore pulls you close with its sweet scents of honeyed almonds, fresh pear and zests of lime. There's a tremendous amount of salty tension within, complemented by brisk acids, yet also contrasted by ripe orchard fruits. It finishes long with mouthwatering freshness, while hints of almond paste mixed with green apple slowly fade. (Lot# 21M02) 2021 – 2024

90 Points - Vinous, December, 2023

Crushed rocks and white flowers give way to dried apricots as the NV Brut Valdobbiadene Prosecco Superiore evolves in the glass. This sweeps across the palate with a silken wave of ripe orchard fruits and hints of spice. The mouth is left watering for more as this tapers off remarkably fresh, leaving a tinge of lime as a pleasant punctuation. 2023 – 2025
